

MODUS OP: Clearly, the more I shop and look for things to buy, the more desire I have for things I currently do not have. Nothing wrong with feeling the need to have things, but manufacturing it from thin air is a (capitalism) wrong headed feature. e.g. emphasizing the lack of something. Needs: air, water, food, warmth/coolness, shade from sun, belonging...and the feeling that this will be maintained over our entire lifetime and the lifetimes of our children and theirs.

Get seedlings from LG.

Move shed

Reskilling: Health and Education next Monday.

Spent grains: reuse yeast

workwell industries' farmfield by kroger.

Put in 4x4's in yard for grapes and passion fruit' plants to grow on.

- Bike reskilling: how to carry heavy things on bikes. Simple, flexible.
 - HikeNBike: Reusing paper; ask people for help (filling out)
- Spiceballs: Frozen peanuts crush granulated with salt, sugar, citric acid.
- MAKE my own soccer goal (mini) out of PVC pipe and netting of some kind... and how to make it collapsable. 6 elbows and 6 pipe sections...and shower curtain holders...and fabric.
- ecoshock fact: every person needs to plant 20 trees per year to offset their carbon footprint.
- Reskill: How to chop down a big tree without paying $1700 for the service.

repurposedMATERIALS	Tree House "repurpose"; Steel Pipe...1/2" to 12".....	Mon 5/15...
repurposedMATERIALS	brewery's 8' tall Fire Pit; cheap Weed Killer & more.....	Tue 5/9/2...
repurposedMATERIALS	Scooters for Kids!?! Insulation...Double "repurpose" & more...	Mon 5/8/...
repurposedMATERIALS	Gym Bleacher Wood; our OnLine Auction ENDS Tonight.....	Wed 5/3/...
repurposedMATERIALS	3/16 Stainless Tubing; Stucco...still-in-the-pail & more...	Mon 5/1/...
repurposedMATERIALS	US Open Snowboard stuff; Salt...39,000 lbs & more...	Thu 4/27/...

